A DOG IN CHURCH.

The Universalist church observed children's Sunday, last Sunday by a union service of the church and Sunday school at the regular hour of morning worship. The auditorium was profusely decorated with oak leaves, roses and other cut flowers. A committee from the Altar guild had this in charge, Miss Abbie Russell being chairman. The service opened with singing by a choir of young girls, who sang again most acceptably during the service. At the conclusion of the opening service of the church, little Elizabeth Yerrington sang a solo, followed by a recitation by Miss Harwood. Then followed a duet by Ella Kimball and Miss Harwood, recitations by Alice Coye, Grace Robbins, "Billy" Conduit, Harlan Reyecroft and Beatrice Frost. A very pleasing number in the exercises was the rendition of a violin solo by Miss Newman, Winchester, with a delicacy and sweetness of touch that showed a complete mastery of the instrument and a true love of music. The offering was taken by Masters Harlan and Wendell Reyecroft and Harriett Holt and Ella Kimball.

At this part of the service took place that feature of children's Sunday which is always the most interesting and impressive—the christening of the children. So many were to be baptized that the pastor requested the parents with the infants to come forward first. Five little ones in the arms of their parents were presented, and, following the ancient custom, the pastor took them in his arms and blessed them. Then others came forward, and seven older children were by their parents dedicated to the christian life, making in all twelve. The pastor was called to the homes of people who were not able to bring their children to the church and christened three little ones.

After the christening in the church, Mrs. F. B. Wadleigh made some remarks in regard to the work of the Sunday school, taking the place of Mr. J. O. Holt, superintendent, who was detained at home on account of sickness. She presented to Miss Marion Smith and Miss Ethel Butterfield gifts for their missionary efforts in behalf of the school.

Immediately following, the pastor, Rev. Harry Fay Fister, led to the platform a good-natured and well-groomed bulldog, who seemed to enjoy looking from his point of vantage at the people. It was so late in the morning that the pastor simply requested the children to take a good look at the dog, telling them that he would tell them next Sunday why he had brought the dog to church. It is a liberty and privilege of newspaper men to anticipate, so we may state that Mr. Fister intends to tell the Sunday school how this dog, "Jack," discovered a fire in the basement of a store near the Centre and aroused his master and family, thereby saving much property from fire and possibly some lives. For what animals do for people, in return boys and girls ought to treat animals with kindness. "Jack" and other dogs ought not to be kicked, stoned and lured into "barbed wire fences."

The seating capacity of the church was taxed at this service.

Cedars Twenty Centuries Old.
Some cedars are undoubtedly more than 2,000 years old, for, though on good moraine soil they grow about as fast as oaks, on bare pavements and smoothly glaciated overworn granite ridges in the dome region they grow extremely slow.

One on the Starr King ridge, only 2 feet 11 inches in diameter, was 1,140 years old. Another on the same ridge, only 1 foot 7 1/2 inches in diameter, had reached the age of 884 years. The first 15 inches from the bark of a medium sized tree—6 feet in diameter—on the north Tenaya pavement had 850 layers of wood, or 57 to the inch. Beyond this the count was stopped by dry rot and overgrown wounds.

The largest I examined was 38 feet in girth, or nearly 10 feet in diameter, and, though I failed to get anything like a complete count, I learned enough from this and many other specimens to convince me that most of the trees 8 to 10 feet thick, standing on polished glacier pavements, are more than 20 centuries of age rather than less. Barring accidents, for all I can see, they would live forever. When killed, they waste out of existence about as slowly as granite.—John Muir in Atlantic.

ADVERTISE.

'00 GRADUATED

The graduating exercises of the High school class of 1900 were held in the Town hall on Wednesday evening. A large audience was present. The hall was prettily decorated with a variety of choice plants and flowers. Over the stage was suspended the class motto, "Deeds, not words," wrought in flowers. The invocation was by the Rev. Harry Fay Fister. The greeting of the class was given by George Stanley Bartlett. Miss Agnes May Robertson read the class history, and then a recitation was given by Miss Annie Wyman Ward. The duet song from "Cavalleria Rusticana," entitled "Night at Eventide," was delightfully rendered by Miss Theresa May Hardy and Miss Mary Elizabeth Colman, with violin obligato by Jules Hackel. A recitation was pleasantly given by Miss Blanche Howard Spurr, after which there was a chorus of song by the pupils of the school. The rendering of scene 1, act 5, of the comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," was admirably done. The parts were taken as follows: Herbert Leslie Kidder, Misses Pearl Lucille Perkins, Helen Tafts, Alma Noyes, Ethel Ada Butterfield, Alice May Whittier, George Stanley Bartlett, Edna Caroline Pierce, Daniel Joseph Buckley, David Elwell, Jules Edward White, Edith H. Fay and Howard Williams Spurr. The class song, A. H. S., the words by Miss Edith Fowle of the graduating class was then sung.

The diplomas were presented to the graduating class by Mr. W. H. H. Tuttle, chairman of the school committee. The exercises concluded with the singing of the chorus, "The Recessional," from De Koven, by the school chorus. After the exercises a reception was held by the graduates and teachers, followed by a dancing party. The members of the graduating class are: George Stanley Bartlett, David Joseph Buckley, Ethel Ada Butterfield, Mary Elizabeth Colman, David Elwell, Edith Neilson Fay, Edith Gertrude Fowle, Grace Elizabeth Fowle, Theresa May Hardy, Herbert Leslie Kidder, Alma Noyes, Pearl Lucille Perkins, Edna Caroline Pierce, Agnes May Robertson, Blanche Howard Spurr, Howard Williams Spurr, Jr., Helen Taft, Jules Edward White, Alice May Whittier, Helen Crosby Wood, Annie Wyman Wood and Grace Russell Dweley.

The graduating class of the High school of 1900 has the best wishes of its many friends, in which the Enterprise heartily joins.

BIRD WINS FIRST PRIZE

From time to time we have noted various races in which Mr. John L. Murray's carrier pigeons have taken a part. This week we have the pleasure of publishing a record-breaking race which occurred over a week ago. There were 29 birds liberated at Tilsburg, Ont., to fly 500 miles. The race was held under the auspices of the Arlington and Malden Homing club, and proved to be one of the best ever held by this association. The birds were confined in the basket six days before they were liberated owing to the heavy winds, and when they started on their journey homeward there was a clear sky and a southwest wind. Upon arriving home that night, Mr. Murray found his carrier pigeon in her nest, with a record of 12 hours and 10 minutes, the best record for years in New England, and he secured first prize. L. W. Annis of Malden won second and third prizes.

On Tuesday evening Ladder 1 was ordered out to test the new 60-foot truss ladder from the Moulton ladder factory at Cambridge—an official test. The test was most satisfactory in every way. The ladder was run up in one and one-eighth minutes, and reflected great credit to the members of the company. In the first test the ladder was run up to the capping of the roof, and eight men were placed in the centre. On the second test nine men stood on the centre rounds, and on the third test the ladder was placed on two wooden horses, and Driver Sullivan stood upright in the centre, this being a very severe test. The department has one of the finest ladders in the country to fight fires from.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

GIVEN MANY PRESENTS

On Wednesday evening at St. Charles church, Woburn, by the Rev. Fr. Keegan, Mr. James F. Prendergast of Arlington was married to Miss Annie M. McGinnis of that city. Mr. Charles F. Ford of Arlington was best man, while Miss Carrie Frazier of Cambridge was the bridesmaid.

The newly-married couple returned to this town where they held a reception from 9 to 12 at the groom's mother's residence on Mystic street, where they received their friends from Boston and many of the surrounding towns.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white tulle over duchess satin and carried bride roses, while the bridesmaid wore white organdie over pink silk and carried jack roses. The four sisters of the groom were handsomely gowned. Miss May, white organdie with laces, Miss Winifred, white muslin, lace trimmings, Miss Kate, white organdie over corn colored silk, Miss Nellie, white Chinese silk with pearls and jack roses.

Messrs. Frank Ford, Frank Rowe, James Ford, P. B. Corrigan, P. B. Wilde, and James P. McCarthy of Boston, were ushers. A fine musical program was rendered during the reception by an orchestra, and there was contralto solos by Miss Susie Burke of Boston, selections by Miss Kittie Walsh of Roxbury, soprano solos by Mrs. Charles Beauchemin with violin obligato by Mr. F. W. Derby, piano solos by Mr. Casley of Cambridge, and songs by Mr. John Whalan of Orient Heights.

One of the largest displays of wedding presents we ever saw was tastily displayed in the front chamber, and included a beautiful oak rocking chair with tufted leather seat and back, a handsome cut glass tankard with solid silver taimmings, several pieces of fine-cut glass ware, three massive lamps, fine laces, rare pictures, a beautiful china set of Haviland ware, rockers, together with expensive bric-a-brac, quantities of silverware, separately and in sets, china, clocks, etc., which showed the newly married couple had many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Prendergast will reside at 60 Mystic street upon returning from their wedding trip.

"THE GLORIOUS FOURTH."

"The glorious Fourth," so near at hand, is our American "Declaration of independence." It is the popular and emphatic definition which this new world has been giving to individual freedom for more than a century. It is the day above all others in the year when men and women everywhere take home the fact that this land of ours is "the land of the free and the home of the brave." It has been written in blood, and underscored by many a precious life, that we as a people bow the knee to no sovereign on earth—that we hold ourselves accountable only to God and to our own consciences—that we have the inalienable right to go where we will, and to do what we will. Those early fathers were terribly in earnest when they declared in trumpet tones that we will forever rid ourselves of England's oppressive rule. And so came that long revolutionary struggle which gave birth to that larger freedom which is ours forevermore.

Our Fourth of July is the national hymn set to the music of the popular will. The day to us is an inheritance. Bequeathed to us by those who fought at Lexington, Concord and Bunker Hill, we are so to regard the day that we shall not trespass on the rights of others. We must grant to every man, woman and child the world over the same individual liberty that we ourselves enjoy. When the American people defined the term "liberty," it defined it for the world. We should prove ourselves true in every instance to God's rendering of individual and popular rights. We are not to drift from the underlying thought of the spirit of '76. And yet there is always danger attendant upon the rapid growth of any people. Large acquisitions of territory create oftentimes the desire for more, and thus it is that in so many instances comes that overreaching in all governmental affairs. The cry "expansion" is all right, provided we do not invade thereby our neighbor's home. We, of all people, should zealously guard the rights of others. With us "hands off" should be the demand. In our dealings with other lands and with other peoples, care should be had that we do not run butt against those immutable principles of right and justice which moved us on to a supreme victory in Washington's time. In our estimation we have gone back on our declaration of rights in our aggressive and authoritative treatment of the Filipinos. It is exceedingly difficult to deal justly when the power is all in your own hands. We, as a nation, have attained a growth far beyond our years, so the temptation has come to the American people "to keep what it's got and catch what it can." We need to go slowly if we would go surely. We shall do well to remember that "the race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong."

The Fourth of July means, if it means anything, that fair dealing among the nations of the earth is that gospel of peace which is to make the whole world one in spirit and in truth. An itching desire on the part of any people to get possession of the largest possible stretch of earth must finally prove disastrous. Better be content with what we have. Our celebration on Wednesday should give renewed emphasis to the declaration that "all men are born free and equal."

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

The national Republican ticket made at Philadelphia last week is, as we said in our last issue, the outcome and work of Tom Platt and Co. so far as the vice-presidency is concerned. It was a predetermined fact that Governor Roosevelt should somehow be gotten out of the state of New York, where, in the estimation of Platt, he was becoming too much of a factor in state politics, and prospectively too much of a factor in national politics, so there was nothing other to be done than to shelve the governor, and put him in a position in Washington where he could have nothing to do, and consequently unable to disturb the "machine." As usual, Platt has had his say, now what next? So far as the recent National Republican convention has to do, McKinley and Roosevelt are already triumphantly elected. But we shall do well to remember that the American people are to sit upon the case.

While the ticket is likely to prove a popular one with the Republican party, still the decisive battle is to be fought at the polls in November by the legal voters of the country. Stump speeches at nominating conventions, and fulsome eulogistic orations pronounced over candidates, do not and cannot determine the election. While we admire the pluck and vim of Theodore Roosevelt, still it will take something more than his "give them hell, boys," at San Juan, to elect him. There must be something more than the hurrah element in the national political campaign so nearly upon us. The great masses of our people are in a thoughtful mood, so they are putting in at every point their interrogatories and exclamations in a way that indicates a face-to-face fight. "Imperialism" will be discussed from start to finish. Those who declare that the aggressive war in the Philippine Islands is unwarranted must and will be heard. Senator Hoar and ex-Governor Boutwell and that army of intelligent men who sympathize with them, are not to be branded as traitors to their government because they assert that the powers at Washington have gone outside of all constitutional rights in their management of the Filipinos. The trust question, too, must be met.

Indeed all the prominent objective points of the administration so glowingly eulogized at Philadelphia will be handled without gloves by the opposing party during the coming campaign. It is fortunate for us that there are two great political parties in this country, for they by turn hold each other in check. It isn't in the least way true that any one of our national political organizations desire to bring destruction to our national affairs. And yet were we to believe the oratorical efforts put forth in the city of brotherly love, the logical conclusion would be that the democratic party had its birth for the sole purpose of working national ruin. What absolute nonsense!

Well, the fight is nearly on. Just as soon as the democracy makes its nominations then will the order be given to draw swords. In that contest McKinley will hardly receive the dainty treatment that he did at Philadelphia. He, and Roosevelt too, will be subjected to both shot and shell. That Philadelphia convention, with its intolerable machine work, will receive all due attention. Those resolutions will be analyzed for just what they are worth. That glowing rhetoric of the several speakers at the Philadelphia convention, from Wolcott and Foraker down to the last man who seconded the nomination of McKinley, will be translated into the plainest prose. It will be found before the campaign is over that McKinley is hardly an angel yet, in spite of what was asserted of him at the convention. The republican party will, during the next few months, be pushed against stubborn facts, and the party must defend them as best they may. There will be no taffy passed along the lines in the presidential campaign so immediately before us. It will be a hand-to-hand fight to the bitter end.

THAT SORE SPOT.

Dear, good friend, don't, for heaven's sake, longer nurse that sore spot, which not only makes your own life miserably unhappy, but which brings discomfort to all around you. It is our vain imaginings which upset the world about us. These sore spots are of our own make. In our moody moments we conjure up a thousand evils that do not exist. In one instance it is the slight of a friend when no slight was intended. In another it is the thought that some one is attempting to get the best of us. And so it goes on to the end of the chapter. How the most of us chafe under assumed wrongs! We fret, and stew, and worry, when there is not the least occasion for a disturbed condition of things. Why not let the world go on smoothly with us? Why generate friction by the touch we give to all about us? Why not stroke the cat the right way? Why lie awake nights in counting up the wrongs done us? It is a fundamental and logical truth that our friends will always remain true to us so long as we shall remain true to them.

These sore spots are of our own breeding. They come of bad blood. Set ourselves right, then will all things be right. We side-track ourselves. No one turns the switch to oust us from the main line. Our vision is darkened because we will not see things aright. The criticising voice heard from afar is but the echo of our own mutterings. Dear reader, no longer take upon yourself unnecessary burdens. Let the harness in your daily work rest lightly upon that sore spot of yours. Good cheer comes from a healthful atmosphere. There will always be sunshine where there is no cloud; but remember that one's hand immediately before the eyes will shut out all God's resplendent universe.

Don't then, we repeat, longer nurse that sore spot. From this very moment be made whole by a living faith in your kind. Keep yourself in an expectant mood, hoping for the best, instead of forever suspecting and looking for the worst. Keep yourself on the sunny side of life. Get out of the valley, and place your feet firmly and triumphantly on the top of the mountain, then there will be given you a more extended and far-reaching horizon, by which larger scope of vision, you will have a perspective view of all things.

"THE SCHOOL IS DISMISSED."

The above words are still joyously ringing in our ears, just as we heard them years ago from the lips of our teachers in the district school up in New Hampshire. There is no one who enjoys a vacation more thoroughly than does your average school boy or school girl. With the school door locked, and the blinds shut, and the books laid aside, the children are ready for anything that comes along; and if it happens that nothing comes along, then they set their inventive genius at work, and so create "fun alive."

We congratulate the pupils of our public schools that they have so successfully completed another year of study, and we are glad for them that they have before them a long and pleasant vacation. Our advice to the Arlington boys and girls is, that they make the most of these days off. The vacation time need not be made up entirely of hours of idleness. As one lies under the shade of the apple trees in midsummer and dreams away his time he may yet do some profitable thinking. It was Sir Isaac Newton, you will remember, that discovered the law of gravitation while he lay flat on his back under the shade of what was presumably his favorite apple tree. Vacation should come to us all as the time in which we can catch our breath, that we may renew the race with increased vigor. We need off hours between times. This work, work, work, and everlastingly keeping at it, is the most absurd of absurdities. There may be lots of poetry in being up with the birds, still there is any amount of nonsense in getting ahead of the sunrise. There is much of good common sense in turning over for another nap in the morning.

Boys and girls, don't hurry during your vacation time. With no school bell to call you to work, "let your moderation be known unto all men." There is no little virtue in occasionally being lazy. To move slowly not infrequently indicates good judgment. We have recently read "Brown Studies," by Hepworth, and it makes a delightful treat for the summer time, and particularly so if you are to spend a portion of your vacation in camp alongside the water or in the woods. Get this little book and take it with you as you start out on your summer tramp.

While we are wishing you pupils in our Arlington schools a jolly vacation, we cannot but regret that the happy vacation time does not come to every man, woman and child in Arlington. The good housewife and mother, whose duties keep her at home from one week's end to another, should somehow get a rest; and so should the father, whose broad acres so bind him to the earth. God never intended that any woman should scrub, scrub all her life long, neither did He intend that any man should make a pack-horse of himself. These days off come by God's own appointment. So, with you, boys and girls, with hats high in air, we shout, and put in our loudest huzzas for the long vacation time.

"GET THE BEST."

It always pays to get the best there is in the market. The above is no more true in a physical sense than it is in a literary way. That lyceum or literary organization should in every event, when securing a speaker or essayist, secure the ablest and most instructive to be found. Arlington has no club or organization which can afford to employ from home or from abroad indifferent talent. It is by far the wiser plan to have two or three able and interesting speakers at a hundred dollars each than to secure a dozen speakers who, receiving twenty-five dollars each, are paid more than they are worth. It must be remembered that brains and culture cost something, but let it not be forgotten that they are worth all they cost. Now the object of this editorial is, that each and all our Arlington literary societies shall "take time by the forelock," and early engage the foremost ability to address them during the coming year. Don't get the cheap trash that is hunting for a place on your programme. Be satisfied with two or three first-class speakers if you are able to pay for no greater number. We are tired to death with the intolerable bore on the platform or in the pulpit. Christ fed the multitude by giving them something to eat. In no way different should our churches all over the land and our literary organizations feed their hearers.

The best in the market is always the cheapest in the long run. We want no "warmed-up dinners," or, what is even worse, mere hash, served up at our intellectual feasts. Give us the best, Mr. Historical society and you, Arlington Improvement association, and you, Arlington Woman's club.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

St. Mary's Catholic church of Franklin, over which Rev. J. M. Mulcahy presided for many years, and which he remodeled and enlarged, was entirely destroyed by fire Tuesday evening.

Harvard shut out Yale in the second game of ball of the series and Yale retaliated on Thursday by winning in the boat race. Rah for both!

Graduation days are over for another year.

All signs point to a lively campaign this fall with all the issues which will be brought out on the canvas. Already quietness in business is noticed, the manufacturers, for the most part, desiring to see which way the cat is going to jump.

The oil trust jumps the price of oil, the sugar trust the price on sugar, the ice trust the price of ice, while the poor laborer gets no jump in wages. Is there any consistency or Christianity in this?

his advertisement in this paper. Merchants, go and do likewise.

Chief of Police Harriman has now four new telephone boxes to be placin his district. The boxes are decided improvements over the old ones. By an ingenious arrangement, when the door of the box is opened the bell rings at headquarters, so the officer can now hold the prisoner, while the alarm notifies the head office that he has his man.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gillespie, with their daughter, Katherine, and sons, John and Lincoln, of Philadelphia, Pa., are the guests of Prof. Bendix, 2 Park terrace. Mrs. Gillespie is a daughter of the professor. Mr. Gillespie has a large and lucrative plumbing business in the above city. They are delighted with Arlington and the surrounding towns.

Mr. Winthrop Pattee, connected with the office of Henry W. Savage, has just sold for Anna M. Shaughness to George A. Diston a lot of land on Westminster avenue, Arlington Heights, containing 15,000 square feet. The land is assessed for $900, the selling price being in excess of the assessed valuation. Mr.
Diston intends to build at once.

The A. V. F. A. will meet at their hall at 1.30 p. m. on the Fourth, and have a short parade in uniform through the Centre, after which "Eureka" will give an exhibition of perpendicular playing on the Unitarian steeple, and also horizontal playing. After the play-out, refreshments will be served at the hall to members and their friends.

W. R. C., No. 43, made their annual trip on Monday to Salem Willows, where they had a most delightful time.
About 34 were present. They chartered a car, and took the ride through Winchester, Stoneham, Reading, Peabody and Salem to the Willows. The day was most charming. It was the anniversary of the formation of the corps. Their dinner was served in Chase's—a first-class, appetizing fish dinner.

The Litchfield studio had one of the largest contracts for furnishing the graduating class pictures of the High school that has been given for many years, and for finish and artistic work we have never seen this studio turn out anything like them. Mr. Marshall is certainly a photographic artist of no mean ability, and Mr. Grant cannot be excelled in giving the pictures an equal and exact evenness in the printing.
This firm has already made some advanced strides since they bought out Mr. Litchfield.

Mr. Fred D. Woods, Franklin street, and Mr. Charles A. Hardy, Lake street, were present at Dartmouth college on Tuesday at the meeting of their class of '90. They had 30 of their "boys" promptly on hand. The class held a banquet at the Wheelock. Messrs.
Hardy and Woods did credit to Arlington by the bright speeches they made.
The '90 boys sang with the spirit and with the understanding.

"Here's to good old Dartmouth, Drink her down, drink her down."

For 27 years, with the exception of about eight weeks, Dr. Charles A. Libby has faithfully attended to his duties as a physician, a remarkable record, and one which is a rarity. The doctor will close his office on July 4 and take a well-deserved vacation of about three or four months in the State of Maine, making Portland his headquarters with his wife, who went to this city some three weeks ago. The doctor intends taking a good rest and enjoying himself in gunning, fishing and other various pastimes. The doctor intends to stay away until Sept.
25, when he will return and take up his practice again. The Enterprise wishes the doctor a royal good time, and trusts when he returns he will feel like a new man.

The pupils of the High school assembled on Wednesday morning in Cotting Hall for the distribution of prizes. The programme of entertainment consisted of a musical selection rendered by the High school orchestra—Miss Churchill and Julius Hackel, violins; Fred Butterfield, piano, and Millet Lloyd, cornet.
Mr. E. Nelson Blake gave a timely and helpful address before the pupils previous to the distribution of the prizes.
Prizes went to the following pupils:
David Elwell, Alice M. Whittier, Alma Noyes, Howard W. Spurr, Jr., Ethel A.
Butterfield, Pearl L. Perkins, Agnes M.
Robertson and Blanche H. Spurr.

The following officebearers of Div. 23,
A. O. H., were, at their meeting last week, elected for the ensuing year:

President, Frank O'Neil.
Vice-President, Dennis Buckley.
Recording secretary, Daniel W. Grannan.
Financial secretary, J. Sexton.
Treasurer, Patrick Quinn.
Sergeant-at-arms, Patrick O'Connell.
Door-keeper, Patrick Gunning.
Standing committee, Dennis Buckley, William Merrigan, M. Bowler, J. Sexton, Dennis O'Leary.
Auditors, Dennis O'Leary, James P.
Daley, Dr. Charles A. Keegan.
Sick committee, C. P. Cronin, district
1; Patrick O'Connell, district 2; James P. Daley, district 3; John Moran, district 4; Patrick Hurley, Jr., district 5; John J. O'Brien, district 6; Cornelius Leary, district 7.
Board of directors, John Kelley, Dennis Buckley, David Siney, Michael J.
Meany, Frank O'Neil, J. Sexton, D. W.
Grannan.

A new council of the Royal Arcanum was instituted in Arlington at Odd Fellows hall last Tuesday evening by Deputy Grand Regent Herbert A. Boynton and suite. It was resolved that the council be named "Menotomy Council, No. 1781." The following officers were elected:

Regent, Charles F. Coolidge.
Vice-regent, George A. Sawyer.

Orator, Charles R. Fultz.
Sitting Post-regent, Henry A. Kidder.
Secretary, Frederic B. David.
Collector, Dr. Charles D. Cobb.
Treasurer, Julius W. Buhlert.
Chaplain, George E. Varney.
Guide, Howard S. B. Prescott.
Warden, Charles S. Chadwick.
Sentry, John M. Higgins.
Trustees, Solon M. Bartlett for three years, Charles W. Allen for two years, Thomas E. Holway for one year.
Representative to Grand council, H.
A. Kidder.
Alternate representative, Charles F.
Coolidge.

The new council starts out in a most auspicious manner, with an enthusiastic board of officers, and determined to be a credit to the town in which it is located, and to show that it is a live and growing council of the Royal Arcanum.

The Arlington and Wakefield high

Chief Harriman of our police force had a most enjoyable trip to Yarmouth, N. S., and return, as a guest of Mt.
Olivet Lodge of F. & A. M., Cambridge.
The party left Boston on Friday, 5:30 p. m., June 22d, on the steamer Boston.
All counted, the party numbered 318 masons. The brothers were accompanied by the Cambridge manual training band, 32 pieces. All hands arrived safely at Yarmouth at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. They were met by the local lodge of masons of Yarmouth. A procession was immediately formed, and a short march made through the main street of the village to St. James Hotel, where the party was royally entertained. Every attention and hospitality were shown the Cambridge brethren. A picnic on an island near by, rides all through the town, and so on. But that dinner at 4 o'clock p. m. at the St. James, what shall be said of it? It was a Delmonico one in every way. The "Big Fifteen" from Cambridge chartered an ox team for their ride through the streets of Yarmouth, and attracted much attention thereby.
At 7:30 p. m. the third degree was worked. As the party left, the hand played "God Save the Queen," while the Yarmouth hosts shouted and swung their hats for "Uncle Sam." Mr. Harriman reached home on Sunday evening, singing the praises of Mt. Olivet Lodge of Masons, and having a good word to say of the clear, balmy air and the generous hospitality of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

ARLINGTON BOAT CLUB.

We noticed the other day, at the Boat club, two new large-sized pictures of Messrs. Ernest Hemeltine and Jere Colman. They are most excellent likenesses, and for superior finish cannot be excelled.

Today, on Lawrence field, the Boat club will play the Wellingtons. This is the ninth Boat club beat out 6 to 5 four weeks ago, and this time this club is coming to Arlington with the intention of winning. It will be a great game. The game will be at 3.30, and admission 10 cents.

For the evening before the Fourth, the Arlington Boat club has engaged seven colored troubadours to sing popular songs and play rag-time music. At 7 p. m. on the Fourth the regular club celebration will begin, and will consist of fireworks, band concert and the usual midsummer hop. Town's band of 22 pieces will furnish music from 7.30 p. m. until midnight.

The entertainment committee of the Arlington Boat club has made arrangements with the Arlington Improvement association to give six band concerts, during the summer, on a float opposite the club house. It would have been the more democratic way, it seems to us, that the float should be sufficiently large to accommodate all those who have contributed towards the expense of the concerts, or otherwise have no float. Our point is this: that no distinction or advantage should be had by the few of all those who pay their part of the cost.
Let all have the same chance in getting his or her position, that the music may be heard. The first concert will be given on the morning of the Fourth from 10 a. m. to 12 m.

The Arlington boat club base ball team played with the North Attleboro club on the grounds of the latter last Saturday afternoon, and were defeated, 13 to 7. The score:

The Rev. S. C. Bushnell of Pleasant street Congregational church preached an unusually interesting sermon on Sunday morning from the text, "The Lord our God is one Lord." As an introduction to the sermon, Mr. Bushnell spoke as follows: "Early in my ministry I was called upon to preach to the guests of the 'Maplewood,' a hotel in the White Mountains. It was a strange congregation, made up of people of very different tastes in reference to worship. There were Episcopalians, Methodists, Baptists, Unitarians, Universalists, Congregationalists, Jews, besides many others, some of whom had not attended a place of worship in years. As I stood before them I forgot that I was a Congregationalist. I banished from my mind the points on which we differed, and thought of that which such a company had in common. And I was amazed to discover how much there was! There I recognized as never before, that our agreements outweighed our disagreements, and that the essentials are far mightier than the unessentials. And so the text which I have chosen flashed across my mind, 'The Lord our God is one Lord,' with tremendous emphasis on the 'one.' I did not preach upon this text, but have since thought a great deal about what that occasion suggested." The above we have quoted from what Mr. Bushnell so well said on Sunday morning, to give emphasis to the everlasting fact that the pulpit will always gain the closest attention and interest of the people when the minister preaches as a man to men.
Mr. Bushnell on the occasion to which he refers, didn't preach any creed or any peculiar religious view. He simply preached to men and women. Why will not all our clergymen do on every Sunday in the year just what Mr. Bushnell did at "Maplewood?" Men and women are dying on every side for God's simple truth, just such as the pastor of Pleasant street Congregational church gave his people on Sunday morning.
